

5 O'clock Edition! TALKED TO DEATH.

Presbyterians Consider Briggs.

WHY THE CRUISER WAS COOLED.

The Esmeralda Allowed Five Days' Supply.

Mexicans Ordered Her Out of Acapulco.

Presbyterians.

DETROIT, May 28.—After the usual preliminaries at the Presbyterian General Assembly this morning, Dr. Patton spoke a few words in explanation to the committee on the Briggs case. He said:

"You are no doubt ready to credit our committee with a desire to do simply what is best. Recognizing our liabilities to error we have had only a desire to do what was demanded by the exigencies of the case in a spirit of kindness and recognizing the rights of all persons concerned. If discussion brings new light we will welcome it. We are ready to give a reason for every decision we have made. We hope there will be no long debate, although we are prepared for it."

Professor Smith of the Lane Theological Seminary said: "The proposition to terminate the usefulness of a minister should be discussed carefully. Whatever the committee may say, no doubt, conscientiously will be inferred. If Dr. Briggs is not guilty of some offense we shall thus cast reproach on his good name, and the great school already stricken by the act of God will be crippled for at least the immediate future. This is the reason for caution; I know my side is unpopular, therefore hear me candidly and patiently as I try to show the committee have erred. First, it is doubtful whether such an assembly is able to judge of other doctrinal qualifications. Second, Dr. Briggs is not a new man; he was elected seventeen years ago, I think, to the chair in the Union Theological Seminary; many of his colleagues and students say he is a man of ability, scholarship, an able teacher, spiritual and pious. This assembly to whom he is a stranger ought not to be in haste. Presbyterians ask us to act in our wisdom in the premises. 'May not this be to continue him?' The arguments against him are two:

"He is misundestod—that he is not sound in doctrine. First, it is said in quarrels both sides are wrong; why not in misunderstandings? I have watched the controversy from the first because I have had more interest than the most. The omnipotence of the religious press go into all of our homes. Their editors magnify their influence. It is held to be nearly infallible. Has it not biased the commissioners? I desire to say nothing against these editors; but are they qualified for this? Even religious editors cannot be specialists in all departments and are liable to err. It may be they have misunderstood Dr. Briggs. The second charge, that he is unsound, may be based upon a misunderstanding. Some say he endorses the spiritual condition of Martineau. If Dr. Briggs can historically justify his position, he has a right to hold them. My last point is this: Man must be proved unsound after careful trial, need be in all church courts. But in a case like this man is, if charged with unsoundness, considered unsound from the first. I don't see that his ideas of errancy of the bible, redemption of race and progressive sanctification after death is not according to standards." On a strict construction of confession, of course he is "wrong"; but will you, who mean to make such a radical change of our confession as to say that all infants are saved, not leave a little margin for Briggs?"

Dr. Logan, from Scranton, Pa., suggested a modification of the action proposed by the committee. He said: "I agree with them with these two amendments: First—The Assembly disapproves for the present the appointment, etc. Second—That a committee of eight ministers and seven ruling elders be appointed to confer with Professor Briggs and the directors of the seminary." Later he moved and it was seconded.

Continuing, Dr. Logan said: "We must, of course, refuse to confirm him in that chair. The whole church asks, 'shall we not have a word of God that we can trust?' We are bound to say that we cannot sustain him in that chair; but having refused to confirm him, let us wait before taking irrevocable action."

Charles A. Dickey, D. D. of Philadelphia, a member of the Board of Directors of the Union Theological Seminary, said: "I have a plea to make for Dr. Briggs, but I will if I stand alone, plead that my man shall have fair play. I do not defend his views or attack them. I deplore his inaction; I wish to ask only what is expedient—not in the sense of covering up or postponement—but what is best, not merely lawful in time when the strain is so severe and the situation so delicate. We are told by this committee that there was but one risk that compelled this honorable and faithful committee to ask for this decided and irrevocable action. I know they would have brought the proposition to wait if it only could be done. This is the point. Can we wait? The only reason for insisting on a veto now, is that it must be now or never. I will presume to differ with even them. Has not this assembly the same right to interpret a compact as the assembly of '91? Whose view is quoted in the report where they say we lose power of veto if we don't exercise it now? Yet they propose that we have a committee of conference over this action after it is consummated. Would it not be better to trust us than to act irremediably and then confer through a committee?"

Why The Cruiser Cooled.

By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, May 28.—An Acapulco dispatch, dated yesterday, says: The Esmeralda frightened the authorities of this city to such a degree that at 6 o'clock this evening the Chilean warship is cooling.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Dr. Sotelo, Venezuelan Minister here, informed the Associated Press that dispatches received to-day from reliable sources in Mexico state that the Mexican Government ordered the insurgents' Chilean cruiser Esmeralda to leave the harbor of Acapulco. The commander of the vessel said he was willing to leave, but his ship had no sails and could not depart without steam power. The Government then allowed the Esmeralda to take enough coal to carry the order into effect. She received two hundred and fifty tons, her ordinary consumption being fifty tons a day. The Esmeralda sailed on the 26th inst., immediately after receiving her coal allowance.

Postmaster Too Curious.

Special to the GAZETTE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—The preliminary examination of W. S. Nichols, Deputy Postmaster at Capely, Cal., was held to-day. The charge against him is opening a letter addressed to Mrs. Alice Richmond of Anderson by her daughter, with whom Nichols was in love, but by whom he had been rejected. The motive is said to be his desire to know how he stood with the family. His plea was "not guilty," but the letter was introduced in the evidence, in which he acknowledged his guilt. Commissioner Sawyer held Nichols to appear before the Circuit Court, with bail fixed at $1,000.

The Hebrew Expulsion.

By Cable and Associated Press.]

PARIS, May 28.—Baron Hirsch, in an interview in regard to his plans for the amelioration of the condition of the Hebrews in Russia, said there were two ways to do it. The first plan is to acquaint the Czar with the truth in regard to the cruelty perpetrated daily in his name. The Baron said he was convinced an appeal to the Czar's sentiments of justice, humanity and mercy would not be in vain. The other plan is that some order and method should be established in the extermination of the Hebrews from Russia. He continued as follows: "If the Russian government wants to get rid of the million Hebrews, let it allow the many people, who, like myself, are prepared to make the greatest sacrifices in their behalf, to save them from privations, hardships, discomfort and sickness which will naturally attend the wholesale and disorganized expulsion."

From time to time reports have been coming in to the effect that this officer is having trouble with his command, and court-martial after court-martial is ordered upon his instance to try enlisted men. Finally, it is openly charged by the men that their officer is persecuting them. Meanwhile news came that the Captain had thirty men under arrest. Secretary Proctor himself took cognizance of this extraordinary state of affairs, and ordered the release of the soldiers without a court-martial. It is now probable that a court of inquiry will be ordered, and if they so recommend the court-martial will follow.

AN announcement recently made on behalf of the Cobden Club was to the effect that the club, having regard to the approach of the general election, had resolved to devote all of its available funds to the circulation of the literature which is associated with its name and that with this object in view its members had determined to forego their annual whitebait dinner at Greenwich.

It may reasonably be suspected that the Cobden Club is in "low water," says the London Standard. It may survive to disseminate its doctrines among the voters at the next general election, but few people would be surprised if it should not live to witness another. Its life, though it has not been exactly short, has been far from a merry one, it is possibly drawing to a close. The high hopes with which it was founded have not been realized, and the conquests which it confidently counted on achieving have never been won. Nor does even this exhaust the record of its disappointments; for not only has it failed to carry its flag in triumph all over the civilized world, but, during the last decade, it has had to fight a losing battle for its principles even in its native land. Among the early apostles of the creed which it was formed to propagate, there may have been a few, perhaps, who had their doubts as to the probability of its world-wide diffusion; but there could hardly have been any, we should imagine, who foresaw that it would fail to hold its own even in the country of its origin. The more enthusiastic among them reckoned, as we know, on converting at least two quarters of the globe to the true faith. Europe and America would become two continents of free traders, and in the order of their adhesion to the great principle of buying in the cheapest market and selling in the dearest, their peoples would forget all their mutual jealousies and the universal reign of peace would begin. The history of that tragic disenchantment which followed has been often told, and we need not recapitulate it here. A mere glance at the condition of things which it has left behind it will suffice. Free trade was to slay protection, and with the death of protection militarism in its turn was to languish and expire.

A generation has passed and the two systems, economical and political, which were to be swept away have not only not disappeared, but have struck deeper roots and spread wider borders and thriven with a sinister and stupendous growth. One continent is a closed market and the other an armed camp. The wall of hostile tariffs rises ever higher around the shores and along the frontiers of almost every nation but our own, and behind the barrier, everywhere throughout Europe, the earth resounds with the tramp of millions of armed men. The full pathos of their situation is only to be appreciated when we look at home. For here, too, they have been no less signally and far more unexpectedly disappointed of their hopes. Their creed has not gained, but has steadily lost ground even in England, the first of nations to embrace it.

THE Democratic press is just now engaged in an endeavor to kill off James G. Blaine of Maine. The journals of the great unwashed say Mr. Blaine's health is very poor and that it is doubtful if he lives. They seem to be more anxious to kill off possible Republican nominees for the Presidency than they do to find a man within their own party. The Dems realize that should Mr. Blaine conclude to enter the contest, their chance of "getting in" would be greatly lessened, and as Mr. Blaine's public life has been such that no word of fault can be found with it, they are trying to bury him before he is dead.

THE scholarly and classical critic across the way seems to be angered at the GAZETTE for calling attention to a garbled item which appeared in his paper day before yesterday. It has evidently set him to thinking. Our "elegant diction" troubles his classic mind, but he should not allow it to keep him awake nights, for he needs rest.

CHINESE BANDITS.

The French of Tonkin at War with the Freebooters.

Outlaws and Pirates the Curse of the Indo-Chinese Peninsula—Their Methods of Plundering the Towns.

For over a year the French in Tonkin have been trying to destroy the bandit bands that infest the country. Bandits and pirates are the curse of the Indo-Chinese peninsula. The story has often been told of the hundreds of Chinese pirates who infest the large archipelago known as the Robber Islands, near the coast of Tonkin. These bands, in their little vessels, have preyed for many years upon commerce, but they have been at last nearly destroyed by the persistent efforts of the French and Chinese governments to root them out; now the French have an opportunity to turn their attention to the hundreds of bandit bands who terrorize the mainland.

Piracy and other forms of outlawry have existed for ages, says the New York Sun, not only in Tonkin, but also in the whole of Annam. These bands do not commit so many depredations when the harvests are good and the country is tranquil and prosperous; but in times of war, or when poor crops or epidemics afflict the land, they are the curse of Tonkin. Since the French occupied Cochin-China, in 1858, they have waged incessant war upon the bandits, and have at last nearly exterminated them in Annam. The native governments have always been powerless. They have often been able to negotiate with the robber bands, giving their officers dignities and money and apportioning lands among the robber soldiery.

The bands belong to two distinct categories. One class is well disciplined and armed with rapid-firing guns. It is composed almost exclusively of Chinese or of savage Moongs recruited in the mountains, who never visit the low, flat lands, and consequently the delta region, where the enormous crops of rice are raised, are free from them. They retreat only the hills and mountain regions of the interior, where they have hidden retreats and can easily get out of sight after a raid and defend themselves when attacked.

Their little settlements are strongly fortified on all sides, and it is believed the forces sent against them have never taken them by surprise. From these fortified centers they spread over the country and live at the expense of the people. If the inhabitants suffer their depredations in quiet, none of them is killed. All the robbers want is a good living. If any resistance is made, however, the bandits are merciless, and their revenge is terrible. When armies are sent against them, if they consider the advancing force too large to resist, they do not await its approach, but are usually far away in the mountain fastnesses before the avenging forces reach their fortified places.

The bandits of the second category are less warlike, but more numerous than the others. There is scarcely a district in Tonkin that is not troubled with them. While the bandits described above are almost altogether Chinese, these robbers are natives of the country. Many of them are fugitive criminals who dare not return to their villages. In the wilderness they have acquired a taste for the wild life of the freebooter. They till the soil no longer, but live by robbery. Often they dwell in villages that are friendly to them. Five or six men form a little band, committing depredations only in regions that are quite a distance from the villages that shelter them. They are not so well armed as the Chinese bandits. Some of them have flintlocks, but most of them carry only swords or lances with iron points. They give to their bands imposing names, to impress the common people and inspire terror. One band, for instance, is called the Butchers of the Mountains, and another the Heroes of the Country. They are too poorly armed to hazard an attack upon the French posts or populous villages.

They usually select little towns where they know there is considerable booty in the way of food and other plunder. On account of bandits, all villages are guarded by hedges of bamboo and cactus, and watchmen during the night-time walk around the town. When the chief of a bandit band thinks the time favorable for a foray he rallies his men by an understood signal. Sometimes a big fire is kindled on a hilltop, or it may be a volley of musketry. At the signal all the bandits collect at the designated place, where they usually find a bounteous repast, as they do not believe in robbing villages upon empty stomachs. Then in the night they start for the village which is to be surprised. After reaching the unsuspecting settlement they send two or three men in advance, who noiselessly cut an opening in the thorny hedge, through which their comrades gain access to the huts within. Tonkinese watchmen are often known to sleep on their posts, and so it often happens that the bandits do not find it very difficult to surprise the town.

Once within the inclosure the bandits make a terrible noise, firing their guns and yelling like demons. As a rule, the people, thus rudely aroused from sleep, are frightened nearly to death, and offer no resistance to the bandits, who load themselves with every good thing they can find. If, however, the inhabitants offer resistance, their huts are set on fire, and the inmates are killed without mercy.

The French are finding that they have a big job on hand to break up this established institution of the country. Within the past few months they have captured two or three hundred of these bandits, have put the robber chiefs to death, and are keeping the humbler bandits in custody. The prospect is that their vigorous efforts will, in the course of time, make outlawry of this sort so unpleasant that the bandits will take to other pursuits. Then the people of Tonkin will be able to go to bed without the fear that they will be at the mercy of bandits before morning.

MR. HENRY IRVING has received the great compliment of election to the Marlborough club, his proposer having been the Prince of Wales.

STUTTERING SCHOLARS.

Large Numbers of Them in the Public Schools of Germany.

Some alarm has been created in Germany by the recent publication of the official report and statistics of education, which show that among the children now attending the public schools in Emperor William's dominions there are no less than eighty thousand afflicted with the defect of speech known as stammering. The city of Breslau alone, says the Chicago Mail, contributes a quota of twenty-four hundred stuttering children to the total; and in some places the number of stammerers attains the large proportion of ten per cent. of the school attendance.

Realizing the growth as well as the gravity of the mischief, the German government has for some months past devoted considerable attention to the subject, and has gathered together such interesting information about the matter. The most valuable report is that contributed by Dr. Gutzmann, so well known throughout the world for his successful teachings of deaf mutes, and whose absence from the international convention of instructors of deaf mutes recently in session in New York was a matter of sincere regret to the delegates.

According to Dr. Gutzmann, whose report has been adopted and published by the German government, involuntary mimicry plays a great part in stuttering. Like yawning, it is catching. The quicker a child is and the more imitative, the more apt it is to imitate any defects of speech on the part of those by whom it is surrounded. Conclusive evidence of the contagious nature of stammering is to be found in the fact that the number of stutterers in a school increases steadily as the children pass upward from class to class. In the public schools of Berlin, for instance, the number of stammerers among the children in the lowest class was 0.52 of the total force of the class. This proportion rose from year to year, as the children passed upward in the educational scale, until in the highest class the percentage was discovered to be 1.61, or more than three times the number found when the same children were in the lowest class.

Comprehending that it would be only with special care and particular precaution on the part of the teachers that the public schools could be prevented from becoming centers for the propagation of the grave defect of stuttering, the German government has encouraged Dr. Gutzmann to start a special course of scientific instruction for public school-teachers showing them how to deal with the stammerers, and the public schools in all parts of Germany have now sent teachers to Berlin for the purpose of acquiring Dr. Gutzmann's method. So satisfied is the emperor with the latter that he has taken a leading part in securing its general adoption by all the educational institutions in his dominions.

THE "BEAU BRUMMELL" TIP.

Hints to the e Who Wish to Acquire the Latest Mode of Salutation.

If a young gentleman feels that it is his imperative duty to be thoroughly conversant with all the latest fads, fads and wrinkles of modern society, says the Cleveland Leader, he must at once learn the "Beau Brummell" style of tipping the hat. This is an acquired art, as a relish for olives is an acquired taste to most people. The best way to become familiar with the new style is to stand in front of a mirror and practice steadily for a week or two. At the end of that time it is barely possible that the pupil will know his lesson well. The rules for the new style, as laid down by one of Cleveland's brightest young society men are as follows: Never undertake to tip your hat unless the left foot is well in front of the right. That brings your body in a graceful position and will commend you at once to the favorable observation of any young lady who has a knowledge of the principles of the Delsarte system.

Bring the right hand, if the lady is on your left side, in a graceful curve to the brim of the hat. Be sure that your hand describes a curve, otherwise the motion will be similar to half a dozen others associated with matters of the head. For instance, an abrupt angular motion might delude the young woman into believing that you intended to pluck a cinder from your eye.

Grasp the hat lightly by the brim, being sure that the little finger of the hand thus employed sticks up at what might be termed an aristocratic angle. Gently remove the hat and bring it forward at a height of two inches above your head until an imaginary line describing the angle with your body would terminate at the third vest button.

Smile with aristocratic grace. Incline your head slightly as the favored one passes and move the lips a trifle as though extending a greeting, being careful, however, not to appear audibly until the young lady has first addressed you.

This may look like an easy trick, but it is really something very hard to master and perform with excellence; so those say that have attempted it. Of one thing, however, the young men may be assured. That is, that very much of their standing in "dude-dom" depends upon being able to do the "Beau Brummell" tip. There are a number of young gentlemen who promenade up and down every afternoon in the Arcade, practicing the new thing before the show windows, and observing their reflections in the glass.

LAST August there was a fall of manna in Asia Minor, which was baked for bread after the manner of the Biblical tradition. It had been examined by Frenchmen of science and identified as lichen of the family Leccanora esculenta.

On Tuesday morning, February 24, Nairn, in the north of Scotland, was eighteen degrees warmer than London at the same hour, twenty degrees warmer than Paris, fourteen degrees warmer than Lyons and three degrees warmer than Nice.

A SQUARE inch of sun has as much luminous power as two hundred ordinary electric lights of eight candle power, and in every second of time it gives forth as much heat as would result from the burning of twelve thousand millions of millions of tons of the best coal.

After 15 Years.
"For 15 years my mother has been troubled with milk leg. She went to different parts of California, as persons said the climate might help her, but it was of no avail, and I, being a druggist, thought I would get her to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before she had taken half a bottle she said she was improving, so she continued until she took half a dozen bottles, and now she is perfectly well. For nearly fifteen years she was unable to walk around, but she now walks as well as ever." T. F. BLISS, San Francisco, with C. F. Richards & Co., Wholesale Druggists.

"Why do you call your dog 'Shad'?" "Because he won't bite." If you want a good bite go to the Riverside hotel table.

Up in Theology—Wool—Do you know anything about the doctrine of election? Van Pelt—Only in a general way—vote early and often. And take lunch and beer at Jake Becker's. Oh, the Summer shade of ladies' hats is a sight to make man's optics ache with its narrow brim, low crown and flat, it looks just like a big pancake. Wedding stationery at C. A. Thurston's.

Strong Credentials—Miss Hall—I think Count West is lovely; but how did you get to know him, Elsie? The Countess Elsie—It was at a table d'hôte in Switzerland. He passed me the Limburger, which I, of course, declined; but on the strength of that little piece of cheese we found an acquaintance which culminated in our marriage. And the ring was bought of Richard Herz.

Cannot Spare the Time. Nelson H. Baker, District Attorney of Westchester Co., New York, writes: "I have received many letters in reference to my testimonial, lately published, commending Allcock's Porous Plasters. I cannot spare the time to answer them in writing, therefore would again say through the press, that I have found Allcock's Porous Plasters invaluable as chest protectors and shields against coughs and colds. Furthermore I have found Allcock's Porous Plasters unequalled for pains in the side, back and chest."

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trecoot are keepers of the Gov. Light-house at Sand Beach, Mich. and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. ## Wouldn't Work.

The Silver State of the 27th inst. says: A family of Germans arrived yesterday from the old country. There were several young girls in the party, all of whom were offered good positions in private families. They were, doubtless, all imbued with the golden ideas regarding California, however, as they refused the offers and will go on to that State. We venture the assertion that they will soon wish they had stayed in Nevada, and had a little more money and less climate to live on.

San Francisco Meat Market.

Prices vary but little at this season of the year. Trade is of moderate volume, the supply being large enough for all wants. Following are the rates for choice carcasses from slaughterers to dealers:

Memorial services will be held generally throughout Nevada on next Saturday.

Reno and Carson will probably take the lead in making the greatest display, while all the others will do the occasion full credit. So far as the exchanges report the subject, services will be held at Elko, Tuscarora, Winnemucca and Virginia City, besides at Carson and Reno.

No Serious Results.

The Chronicle of last evening says: Mrs. E. B. Yerington, who was thrown from a horse yesterday, is much better to-day, and suffered no serious injury from the accident. She was somewhat bruised by the shock, but happily will soon be entirely recovered.

Reno Division No. 2, K. of P.

Request.

JIM-JAMS.

The Singular Turn They Took With an Old Stage Driver.

"Talking about the Jim-jams," said an old timer, "the horrors and hallucinations are different with different people. Some of the cases I've seen were laughable and instead of awakening pity and compassion for the sufferer, caused the observer to rather envy the victim for the visions of elysian joy that his actions and mutterings indicated were present in his disordered fancies. Now there was a celebrated stage driver on the old Pioneer line running from Hangtown to Carson and Virginia City. His drive ended at Carson, and when he had 'em real bad, the company would let him lay off at Carson until he got over 'em and was all right again. Well, do you know he never suffered any from the attacks, because the spasms didn't act on him like with some. When the spells came on him, he'd

JUST BEGIN TO LAUGH
And point out the window of his room, and nobody but the doctor could get him to say a word or tell what he was laughing at. So the boys would huddle around and bring the doctor, who'd give him something to quiet his nerves, and sit and talk with him and then he'd tell. Some times he saw all out doors filled with the forms and faces of most beautiful women that he'd describe as being just like angels; but when he laughed the hardest then the vision was that of a big field covered all over with pumpkin pies. Singular fancy wasn't it? It seemed he liked pumpkin pies better than any other kind, and his thoughts would run on pie when rum got the best of him." At this point a charitable friend asked the old timer to take something, and moving up to the bar, he removed a quid, took the fingers straight, and wiping his mouth with the back of his hand, said: "Still I always felt kind o' sorry for poor old Hank."

Big Legal Fees.

The New York lawyer who received $200,000 as a fee in settling up the affairs of the assigned firm of Decker, Howell & Co. still stands at the head. The Philadelphia Record has been looking up the big fees paid to members of the bar in the city, but can find none larger than $100,000, which was paid to Wayne MacVeagh for his services in defending the Pullman Palace Car Company in the big suit against it of the Central Transportation Company.

Railroad Fares.

The average amount received by railroads in the United States for carrying a passenger one mile is 1-16c. In England it is a little less, probably 2c. In France it is not quite 15c; in Belgium and in Germany, about 14c. In Austria, before the recent changes in the tariff, it was a little more than 15c; at present it is probably only about 1c. In British India it is less than 6-10c.

G. A. R.

Members of O. M. Mitchell Post No. 69, G. A. R., are requested to meet at Masonic Hall on Saturday promptly at 11 a. m. to take part in the services of the day. All visiting comrades, old soldiers and Mexican Veterans are cordially invited to participate. By order of ## Cattle Shipments.

Cattle shipments have about come to a close from this point for this season. It is expected that a special train will leave here on about next Sunday with a shipment of beef cattle to Portland, Oregon, but this is not definitely settled yet. The shipments west from now will be irregular and only occasional.

I Could Move the World.

If I had something to rest my liver on," said Archimedes. Large bodies move or are moved slowly. But it is no impossible or even difficult task to render those small bodies, the kidneys, active when they are not so. Don't try to do this with unmedicated alcoholic stimulants. The experiment is useless. The sure, safe means is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which acts just the right amount of stimulus without overdoing the matter. Continued inactivity of either the kidneys or bladder, it should never be lost sight of, are attended with great peril. Bright's disease, diabetes, and other ailments which affect the renal organs, have their origin in inaction of the kidneys. To overcome this is an easy matter at the outset. Not so later. Now is the appointed time in case of this sort. Irregularity of the bowels, stomach and liver, rheumatism and malaria are remedied by the Bitters.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

"A GROWL."

MR. EDITOR: Although my taxes are small, yet they are as burdensome to me as if I paid much more. And as a taxpayer, I feel that I have a right to criticize those extravaganzas that are factors in the creation of high taxes. I have in my mind the county hospital. No sooner does the impecunious citizen become broken down and debilitated, than he rushes off to the hospital. Even persistent dyspepsia and constipation are getting to be excuses for admission. Hence, allow me space to enter my feeble protest against further continuance of this pernicious practice. It costs too many hard dollars for the treatment of these unfortunate, and it is high time that they should know that they can save the county that expense, by the judicious use of a few bottles of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla,—a remedy that within my observation is a sovereign cure for those too common disorders. If they won't take it they ought to be compelled to by some law that would meet the case. Under the circumstances a full hospital is inexcusable,—hence this growl.
